

CHALLENGE AND CHANGE

350 YEARS IN THE LIFE OF A HOUSE AND ITS REGION

This exhibition looks at some of the ways in which The Folly and the surrounding area of North Craven have responded to the many challenges and changes of the last four centuries.

Most of these changes have been driven by national and international events, such as economic conditions and war. A few, such as the development of typical building styles, have their origins closer to home.

Individual displays explore different aspects of the story and included throughout the exhibition are images of some of the people who have lived and worked in this area and the possessions they have had around them.

As a building which has seen many uses, The Folly is a living example of the area's response to change and a symbol of the need to continue to adapt in the face of the ever-increasing challenges of the 21st century.
